

International Collaboration Between IUPUI and ATilim University

School of Engineering and Technology

Indiana University – Purdue University Indianapolis

Bekir Kelceoglu

Abstract

This is an international collaboration project between IUPUI's Interior Design and ATilim University's Interior Architecture programs. We are trying to design medical stations (triage stations) for disaster areas by using three used shipping containers. Students from both countries are collaborating using various technology.